DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-20 are presented for examination.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 02/06/2007 is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statement has been considered by the examiner.

Specification

3. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: The clear support and antecedent basis is not found for the term "a machine-accessible medium" in the specification of the current application in such a way so that the meaning of the terms in the claims may be ascertainable by reference to the description.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph because a person of skill in the art would not be able to ascertain the metes and bound of the claimed invention, specifically, for the term "a machine-accessible medium" used in claims 16-20. The above mentioned term is not defined or even mentioned in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-2, 4-8, 10-11, 14-16 and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kukol (USPN: 5,481,708).

As per claims 1, 5-6, 11, 15-16 and 20, Kukol teaches a method for optimizing an executable comprising: migrating a plurality of objects from a first memory to a second memory (i.e. copying (stack-based) variables from main memory to the stack; see 404 in Fig. 4); determining alignment of the migrated plurality of objects (i.e. determining offset; see 405 in Fig. 4); and eliminating redundant initialization code of the plurality of objects (i.e. common subexpression elimination; see Col. 2, lines 47-63 and Col. 11, lines 11-40). Kukol further teaches that the first memory is an external memory (i.e. the main memory 102 in Fig. 1) and the second memory comprises a plurality of indexed registers residing in a microengine (i.e. the stack within the central processor 101 in Fig. 1; see Fig. 1).

As per claim 2, 8 and 14, Kukol teaches the claimed invention as described above and furthermore, Kukol teaches that the plurality of objects are variables (i.e. (stack-based) variables

As per claim 4, 18 and 19, Kukol teaches the claimed invention as described above and furthermore, Kukol teaches that the determining alignment further comprising: analyzing the migrated objects by forward disjunctive dataflow analysis; determining a minimum alignment necessary for each migrated object; and setting the minimum alignment necessary for each migrated object (i.e. aligning the variables by taking offset into account; see Fig. 5C and Col. 16, lines 34+).

As per claim 7, Kukol teaches the claimed invention as described above and furthermore, Kukol teaches that the plurality of registers are indexed (see Col. 16, lines 34-38).

As per claim 10, Kukol teaches the claimed invention as described above and furthermore, Kukol teaches that the network processing device is a router (i.e. the central processor 101 in Fig. 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kukol.

As per claim 9, Kukol teaches the claimed invention as described above, but failed to teach that the migrated plurality of objects are not shared by the processor and at least one other processor. Official Notice is taken on a prior art teaching a well-known subject matter of avoiding sharing the variables loaded into the registers of one processor with the other processor. By doing so, the data coherency is maintained. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skills in the art at the time of the current invention was made to implement the well-known teaching in the Kukol's processing device so the data coherency is maintained; and the second processor is prevented from modifying the value of variables in the registers of the first processor.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 3, 12 and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claim 13 is also objected as it further limits the allowable claim 12.
